Car is in great condition with no issues and no attention required. Tyres are in good condition (still lots of life left) and car is still under a service plan (until 195,000km). This means that the next service (195,000km service) is free and you won't have to pay for it. Car currently has ~188,000km on the clock.

I'm the second owner - first owner was a single lady. Car is very well looked after and only serviced at Honda dealers (Honda Woodmead for the first ~125,000km and Honda Centurion thereafter).

Service booklet was lost a while ago but proof of services can be obtained from the dealers should it be required.

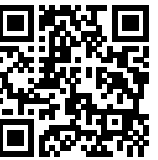

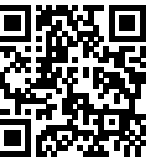

Car has a discreet but good sound system fitted, but it can be removed and the original speakers replaced should you want to negotiate on the price.

Car has had a seat cover on the driver seat since I purchased it and the seats are in great condition (no nicks, tears, stains).

Car is an excellent runner and I've been doing long distance driving with it for a while.

Fuel economy is better than Honda claimed it would be, and I'm getting an average of 5.4l/100km between services (17km~18km/l) on standard 93 petrol.

Great car all round, with ISOFIX child seat system, 4 airbags, ABS and more, making it a safe, small, comfortable hatchback with LOTS of space. I need a bigger car, which is why I'm selling it. The car is in great value for the sale price and I'm negotiating down to the lowest possible value.
