LED LIGHT SECURITY CAMERA

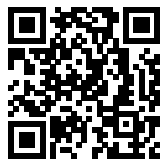

This unique smart home accessory combines the benefits of both a LED light bulb and 360-degree security camera into one cool electronic gadget. Although it might look like any regular LED light, this one is really packed with a 360-degree fisheye lens that is made to detect security cameras. It can be used to protect your home. Additionally, it has a great camera or a light bulb on your bulb when you're not home. That's why it's a WiFi camera with an App that allows you to access the view through your iOS or Android smartphone. This means that no matter where you're at, you'll always be able to see what's going on in your home.

The LED light bulb itself features three 1W white LED lights. Together, these are capable of producing up to 180 lumens. This is enough to light up a medium-sized room in the same way as any other regular LED light would do. It comes with an E27 power socket that brings along great usability. With its energy efficient design, you can enjoy low power consumption rates. This makes your LED light and security camera an environment friendly and cheap to use.

What really sets this LED bulb apart from other lights is naturally its intergraded IP camera. With its 360-degree fisheye lens, it provides you with clear footage of all thats going on in your room. Thanks to this, you can be guaranteed that there wont be any blind spots or places to hide for possible intruders. Besides its fisheye view, this security camera can also record like a regular camera with an ultra-wide angle of 185-degrees. No matter your preference, with this IP camera installed not a single person will be able to enter your property unseen.

With its CMOS sensor in place, your IP camera is capable of producing FHD images at 1280x1024p resolution. This provides you with clear and detailed security footage at any time. Further features such as motion detection and SD card recording (128GB support) will increase your security levels even more. With two-way audio support, youll always be able to talk to visitors or possible intruders from afar. No matter your demands, with this security gadget at your side, your home or office will be safe around the clock.

This IP Camera comes with a 12 months warranty, brought to you by the leader in electronic devices as well as wholesale electronic.
