Radio Presenters are the face & voice of their Radio Station. They have the difficult task of entertaining and informing programme audiences on an national, regional level including satellite channels about everything, everyone and of course music.

Do you have an outgoing personality? Are you confident?

These two vital questions will help you when appearing on various types of programmes including: news and current affairs, sport, music shows, and chat shows. Your look, personality and presenting style are crucial in introducing and interviewing guests, linking segments, and holding a show together. Do you think you have what it takes?
