WHAT IS HAEMORRHOID SURGERY?

Haemorrhoids or piles are swollen veins inside or outside the rectum, which may be painful, itch and bleed. These vessels may form bulging which we call internal or external haemorrhoids, and they should be removed. A haemorrhoidectomy is a procedure that eliminates haemorrhoids from the rectum. It is the most common haemorrhoid surgery. There will be general or spinal anaesthetic to prevent any unpleasant discomfort around the rectal area, incisions are made in the rectum. The end of the inside the haemorrhoid is tied off, and the haemorrhoid is removed to prevent bleeding.

After surgery, you will be given instructions on how to care for your wound and what activities you may and may not do. You will be given pain medication and antibiotics to prevent infection. Rectal and anal pain is normal after these procedures. Recovery is generally quicker when the surgery is done laparoscopically or endoscopically. It is essential to contact Dr Lisa if you experience any of the following symptoms as emergency care may be needed.
