Miscarriage spells are designed in two ways – single or two-dimensional. Single dimension miscarriage spells affect the female alone and might wear out over time.
These spells usually target a single conception period and may wane quickly, giving the female another chance to conceive. And then there's the two-dimensional miscarriage spell. These spells affect both partners in a relationship, eradicating the chances of conception between a couple. Such spells usually require more ingredients and are tough to break. These spells could remain in effect for much longer, especially when the spell initiator wants it so.
